Strong against water, durable

This cycling map is made of stone paper which is strong against water and friendly to the environment.

Since stone paper, whose main raw material is inorganic mineral powder extracted from stone, does not use wood chips, valuable forest resources can be protected. In addition, there are no processes such as drying or washing during the production. Strong acids, alkalis, and bleaching agents are also not used. Therefore, there is no pollution in the rivers and seas with wastes such as wastewater and waste gas.
